THE INAUGURATION.

President Grant and Vice President Colfax Installed.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Full Account of the Ceremonies and Incidents of the Occasion.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 4, 1869.

The day dawned with rain, but the route along which the procession was to pass was soon thronged with people.

The first appearance of troops at headquarters was company K, Fifth United States Cavalry. General Grant arrived shortly afterwards. The following cable dispatch was placed in his hands:

MARCH 4th, 1869.—To President Grant, Washington: In honor of the man and the day, three cheers for the President.

Members of the Berlin Exchange,
FRITZ MAYER.

Vice President Colfax reached headquarters shortly after ten o'clock and went immediately to General Grant's office, and after cordial greeting with the President elect and the members of his staff, entered into conversation with the gentlemen present on ordinary topics.

In the meantime the troops and military organizations began forming and the crowd of spectators upon the streets grew more dense. At precisely eleven o'clock the Marshals entered Headquarters, and the troops were stationed at proper posts.

The President Elect.

Gen. Grant, calm and composed as ever in his life, came from his office and entered his phaeton, accompanied by Gen. Rawlings. Vice President elect Colfax came next, and entered the next carriage, accompanied by Admiral Bailey, of New York. Next a Committee of the members of the staff of Gen. Grant entered carriages with the Committees of Congress and of different organizations present.

The Procession to the Capitol.

As the procession started the band struck up "Hail to the Chief." Regular and other troops were drawn up along the square and came to a present arms as the carriage containing the President elect, with his head uncovered, drove slowly along, while immense cheers rent the air on every side.

There were eight grand divisions in line, the first under Colonel Wallace and composed of regulars escorting the President and Vice President elect. The second division was composed of volunteers, including two colored organizations. The third division was composed of prominent civil officers of the Government, Foreign Ministers, Grant and Colfax electors, officers of the army, navy and marine corps, and the corporate authorities of this city and Georgetown. The fourth division of Republican political organizations of this place and elsewhere. The fifth division of sailors and soldiers, Union Grant and Colfax Clubs. The other divisions were composed of the United States Fire Department and its visitors, and the City of Washington Fire Department and its visitors.

Among the prominent objects of attraction was a miniature ship, fully rigged and manned, and a printing press in operation.

The head of the parade having reached the Capitol, the President-elect entered to take the oath and deliver his inaugural address. The throng of human beings in front exceeded anything of the kind ever before witnessed here. The procession was about one hour in passing a given point.

In the Senate Chamber.

About 11:30 the unsuccessful attempt to take up the bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act was followed by a little period of inaction, and as there appeared to be no further business to transact, or at least no disposition to do anything else, apparently by common consent the Senators began to chat with each other and change seats.

In a few minutes the desks on the right hand side of the Chamber were left vacant for the occupation of the Diplomatic Corps and other invited guests, who kept coming. The Diplomats, however, entered in a body and attracted immediate attention by the splendor of their uniforms and dignified bearing. All Legations were represented and the Ministers of the principal foreign nations were all present, except Baron Gerolt, of Prussia, who was detained at home by sickness.

Among those present who were particularly noticed were Edward Thornton, Minister from Great Britain; M. Berthemy, French Minister; Chevalier Cerrute, Minister from Italy, and Blacque Bey, Turkish Ambassador, who sat in the front line.

Behind the Ministers and Charge De Affaires were ranged a large number of Secretaries and attaches of various Legations, who also, in many instances, were gorgeously attired.

Appearance of the President and Vice President.

Soon after a buzz of excitement called attention to the appearance at a side door of the President and Vice President elect, who entered arm in arm respectively with Senators Cragin and M'Creery, the Committee appointed to escort them to the chamber. Almost at the same moment, and before they had reached the open space in front of the chair, the door at the main entrance was thrown open and the Justices of the Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Chase, and clad in the robes of office, entered the Senate Chamber, walked in procession down the centre aisle and took the seats prepared for them in front of the rostrum.

General Grant had meantime been conducted to a chair immediately in front of the Clerk's desk, and sat facing the the audience, the target for several thousand eyes, whose gaze he seemed neither to avoid nor realize, but exhibited his usual self-possession and unassuming demeanor.

President Johnson Not Present.

A seat to the left of that prepared for General Grant was in readiness for President Johnson, but was not occupied, nor was the latter in the Capitol this morning, but signed bills as they were sent to him at the White House.

Inauguration of the Vice-President.

The Presiding officer having announced that all was in readiness for the inauguration of the Vice-President elect, Mr. Colfax advanced up the steps of the rostrum, and facing the Presiding officer, took the usual oath of office, which the latter administered.

Turning to the Senate, Mr. Colfax delivered the following address, which was listened to with the deepest attention and distinctly audible to all:

Address of Mr. Colfax.

SENATORS: In entering upon the duties of this chamber, to the performance of which I have been called by the people of the United States, I realize fully the delicacy as well as the responsibility of the position. Presiding over a body whose members are in so large a degree my seniors in age, not chosen by the body itself, I shall certainly need the assistance of your support and your generous forbearance and confidence. But pledging to you all a faithful and inflexible impartiality in the administration of your rules, and earnestly desiring to cooperate with you in making the deliberations of the Senate worthy, not only of its historic renown, but also of those States whose commissions you hold, I am now ready to take the oath of office required by law.

Senators Sworn In.

The Senators-elect then came forward as their names were called and took the Senatorial oath of office, which was administered by the newly inducted Vice-President, in the following order: Thos. F. Bayard, Delaware; Arthur I. Boreman, West Virginia; Wm. A. Buckingham Connecticut; Matt. H. Carpenter, Wisconsin; Eugene Casserly, California; Zach. Chandler, Michigan; Geo. F. Edmunds, Vermont; Reuben E. Fenton, New York; Abijah Gilbert, Florida; Hannibal Hamlin, Maine; D. D. Pratt, Indiana; Alex. Ramsey, Minnesota; Carl Schurz, Missouri; John Scott, Pennsylvania; Wm. Sprague, Rhode Island; Wm. A. Stewart, Nevada; John P. Stockton, New Jersey; Charles Sumner, Massachusetts; Allen G. Thurman, Ohio; Thomas W. Tipton, Nebraska.

Two of the Senators elect, Mr. Hamilton, of Maryland and Mr. Brownlow, of Tennessee, were not present.

Inauguration of President Grant.

The organization of the new Senate having been completed, it was announced that the Senate, Supreme Court and invited spectators would proceed to the east part of the Capitol to participate in the ceremonies of the inauguration of the President elect. A procession was accordingly formed and the late occupants of the floor of the Senate proceeded through the corridors and rotunda to the place indicated, in the following order: The Marshal of the Supreme Court; Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court; Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate; President-elect, with members of the Committee of Arrangements; the Vice President and Secretary of the Senate; the Diplomatic Corps; ex-members of the House of Representatives and members-elect to the Forty-First Congress; Heads of Departments; Governors of States and Territories: Officers of the Army and Navy, and all other persons who had been admitted to the floor of the Senate.

In front of the portico, but about ten feet lower, being on a level with the first landing place of the flight of marble steps, had been constructed a platform capable of accommodating, together with the steps, about five or six hundred persons. It had a semi-circular front, which was covered with wreaths of evergreen. The National flag was also entwined with two of the columns supporting the pediment of the portico. On reaching the platform the President elect took a seat provided for him directly in front of the center, Vice President Colfax and Sergeant-at-Arms in charge of the ceremonies sitting on his right, and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court on his left. The Senate Committee of Arrangements were near at hand, and next in the rear the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court occupied seats on the left, and the members and Secretary of the Senate on the right. The Diplomatic Corps were to have occupied seats next in the rear of the Supreme Court, but were not sufficiently alert to prevent themselves being crowded into the back ground by members of the House of Representatives and others, who secured the foremost places remaining, and left the Diplomats to take their chances with the officers of the army and navy and others on the steps and portico, where, perhaps, they fared better, being less crowded and having a better view of the general scene.

The rain had ceased, and though the atmosphere was damp and heavy, the weather seemed to have no chilling effect upon the general enthusiasm. The grounds opposite and the streets adjoining were packed with human beings. Near General Grant, and a little behind him, sat Mrs. Grant, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Sharp, and Mrs. Casey, her sister-in-law, Mrs. General Dent and her children, Jennie and Nellie, and Masters Fred and U. S. Jr.

The Oath Administered.

The shouts and bursts of music from a dozen bands subsided as the President elect and Chief Justice of the United States rose simultaneously, and the latter commenced, in clear and solemn tones, to recite the formula of the Presidential Oath of Office, which General Grant reverentially took. The boom of cannon and shouts of the vast multitude then burst forth. Partial quiet having been restored, the President rose and proceeded to read from manuscript his inaugural address.

President Grant's Inaugural Address.

Citizens of the United States:

Your suffrages having elevated me to the office of President of the United States, I have, in conformity with the Constitution of our country, taken the oath of office prescribed therein. I have taken this oath without mental reservations, and with the determination to do, with the best of my ability, all that it requires of me. The responsibilities of the position I feel, but accept them without fear. The office has come to me unsought. I commence its duties untrammeled. I bring to it a conscientious desire, and the determination to fill it to the best of my ability, to the satisfaction of the people.

On all the leading questions agitating the public mind, I will always express my views to Congress, and urge them according to my judgment, and, when I think it advisable, will exercise the Constitutional privilege of interposing a veto to defeat measures which I oppose. But all laws will be faithfully executed, whether they meet my approval or not.

I shall, on all subjects, have a policy to recommend, but none to enforce against the will of the people.

The laws are to govern all alike—those opposed to as well as those who favor them. I know of no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent execution.

The country, having just emerged from a great rebellion, many questions will come before it for settlement, in the next four years, which preceding administrations have never had to deal with. In meeting these, it is desirable that they should be approached calmly, without prejudice, hate or sectional pride; remembering that the greatest good to the greatest number is the object to be attained. This requires the security of persons, property, and for religious and political opinions in every part of our common country, and without regard to local prejudices. Laws to secure these will receive my best efforts for their enforcement.

A great debt has been contracted in securing us and to our posterity the Union. The payment of this, principal and interest, as well as the return to a specie basis, as soon as it can be accomplished, without material detriment to the debtor class or to the country at large, must be provided for.

To protect the National honor, every dollar of the Government indebtedness should be paid in gold, unless otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract. Let it be understood that no repudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public place, and it will go far towards strengthening a credit which ought to be the best in the world, and will ultimately enable us to replace the debt with bonds bearing less interest than we now pay.

To this should be added a faithful collection of the revenue, a strict accountability to the Treasury for every dollar collected, and the greatest practicable retrenchment in the expenditures in every department of the Government. When we compare the paying capacity of the country now,—with ten of its States still in poverty from the effects of the war, but soon to emerge, I trust, to a greater prosperity than ever before,—with the paying capacity of twenty-five years ago, and calculate what it probably will be twenty-five years hence, who can doubt the feasibility of paying every dollar then, with more ease than we now pay for our useless luxuries. Why, it looks as though Providence had bestowed upon us a strong box—the precious metals, locked up in the sterile mountains of the far-west, which we are now forging the key to unlock, to meet the very contingency that is now upon us. Ultimately, it may be necessary to increase the facilities to reach these riches, and it may be necessary also that the General Government should give its aid to secure this access, but that should only be when a dollar of obligation to pay secures precisely the same sort of dollar to use now, and not before.

Whilst the question of specie payments is in abeyance, the prudent business man is careful about contracting debts payable in the distant future. The nation should follow the same rule. A prostrate commerce is to be rebuilt and all the industries encouraged. The young men of the country—those who from their age must be its rulers twenty-five years hence—have a peculiar interest in maintaining the national honor. A moment's reflection as to what will be our commanding influence among the nations of the earth in their day, if they are only true to themselves, should inspire them with national pride. All divisions, geographical, political and religious, can join in the common sentiment.

How the public debt is to be paid, or specie payments resumed, is not so important as that a plan should be adopted and acquiesced in. A united determination to do is worth more than divided councils upon the method of doing. Legislation upon this subject may not be necessary now, or even advisable; but it will be when the civil law is more fully restored in all parts of the country, and trade resumes its wonted channels.

It will be my endeavor to execute all laws in good faith; to collect all revenues assessed, and to have them properly accounted for and economically disbursed. I will, to the best of my ability, appoint to office those only who will carry out this design.

In regard to our foreign policy, I would deal with the nations as equitably as the law requires individuals to deal with each other, and I would protect the law-abiding citizen, whether of native or of foreign birth, wherever his rights are jeopardized, or the flag of our country floats. I would respect the rights of all nations, demanding equal respect for our own. If others depart from this rule in their dealings with us, we may be compelled to follow their precedent.

The proper treatment of the original occupants of this land, the Indians, is one deserving careful study. I will favor any course towards them which tends to their civilization, christianization and ultimate citizenship.

The question of suffrage is one which is likely to agitate the public so long as any portion of the citizens of the nation are excluded from its privileges in any State. It seems to me very desirable that this question should be settled now. I entertain the hope and express the desire that it may be by the ratification of the Fifteenth Article of Amendment to the Constitution.

In conclusion, I ask for a patient forbearance, one towards another, throughout the land, and a determined effort, on the part of every citizen, to do his share towards cementing a happy Union, and I ask the prayers of the nation to Almighty God in behalf of this consummation.

During the Delivery

His voice was not audible, except to persons on or near the front of the platform, but at every pause the satisfaction manifested by those who were near at hand was responded to by cheers and shouts from the crowd more distant, and some of the points of the address were quietly circulated from mouth to mouth and made the occasion for applause even some time after their utterance.

A Pleasing Incident.

During the delivery of the address little Nellie Grant was lifted over the shoulders of intermediate spectators and reached the side of her father, where she stood some time unseen and unnoticed by him, but so smiling and happy and brightly innocent that her presence seemed to lend a gleam of sunshine to the scene, and the incident called forth many expressions of pleasure and admiration.

Ceremonies Concluded.

At the conclusion of the address the President was warmly congratulated by his friends and soon afterwards left in his carriage for the White House.

The procession re-formed and took up the line of march in the same direction, and the Senators having returned to their Chamber the crowd dispersed and the inauguration ceremonies brought to a conclusion.

Most of the Senators having returned to the chamber the session was resumed at 12:45 P. M., and five minutes afterwards, on motion of Mr. Trumbull, the Senate adjourned until 12 o'clock to-morrow.

New President and Vice President at the White House.

President Grant reached the White House after his inauguration about 2 P. M. He was met at the door by General Schofield, Secretary of War, who had been left by Mr. Johnson in charge of the Executive office. The latter left the White House at twelve o'clock, with the members of his Cabinet, except General Schofield. Vice President Colfax also accompanied President Grant to the White House. The members of the staff of General Grant were also present.

An immense multitude congregated outside the gates of the Executive mansion, in the belief that there would be a general reception, but the President decided not to have one this afternoon.

Dispatch from Bismarck.

Upon his entrance to the office the following dispatch was handed to President Grant:

Berlin, March 4.—President Grant, White House, Washington: My cordial congratulations on this solemn day.
[Signed.] BISMARCK.

Last Acts as General.

The last papers signed by General Grant, as General of the Army, were a number of documents intended for reference to the Secretary of War, and two warrants for Hospital Stewards in the army. General Grant will not dine at the White House. His phaeton remained at the door in readiness to convey him home again.

The Inauguration Ball.

The new wing of the Treasury Department was elegantly arranged for the non-official festivities. The various rooms appropriated to this purpose were handsomely decorated with portraits, flags and evergreens. The crowd was immense. There were many elegant toilettes and not a few distinguished personages were in the assemblage. At half past ten o'clock President Grant and wife, Vice President Colfax and wife, and the latter's immediate relatives, came in the building and were conducted to a private room set apart for them. They were accompanied by invited friends, and the Diplomatic corps composed a part of the company. A dense crowd pressed towards the door, and when the distinguished party came out followed them to an upper room designated for the reception. There the President and Vice President and their wives received the congratulations of their friends, as well as those who were merely attracted by curiosity. There was an abundance of music, but little dancing. Owing to the want of room there was no comfort anywhere in the building, and many were glad to escape from the pressure.

WASHINGTON, March 4, 1869.

ACCIDENT TO GRANT'S FATHER.

President Grant's father met with a severe accident to-day. He became separated from the President's party while on the platform after the inauguration, and accosting Mr. Driggs, ex-member of Congress from Michigan, asked him to conduct him out of the Capitol, saying when he reached the grounds all would be right. Mr. Driggs replied he would accompany him, and proceeded to conduct him out of the rotunda and through a private way on the east side of the Capitol. Mr. Grant withdrew his arm from that of Mr. Driggs' and reached it forth as if to guide himself by a side of wall down the stairs. He made a miss-step and fell backward down eight or ten of the stone steps, striking his head against them, badly injuring his right hip and sustaining other injuries, but breaking no bones. Mr. Driggs with assistance carried him to a private room and procured a stimulant, which was administered to the sufferer, then engaged a carriage and carried him to President Grant's private residence.

CASE OF JUDGE BUSTEED.

In the case of Judge Busteed, accused of corruption and ignorance, the Judiciary Committee to day reported to the House that they had considered the case fully. They recommended the testimony should not be printed, and asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the matter. The report was accepted and laid on the table.

DID NOT BECOME LAWS.

The Indian appropriation bill and the Denver Railroad bill have failed to become laws. President Johnson was not at the Capitol. The bills taken to him, which were of a general character, except those above named, received his signature. Mr. Coburn's bill failed. It proposed to distribute $20,000,000 of national currency in the West and South.

RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA.

Representative Schenck, from the Committee of Ways and Means, last night made a report in favor of opening negotiations for reciprocal trade with Canada. Further action was not considered necessary beyond this expression of the views of the Committee.

BILLS POCKETED.

The following bills were pocketed by President Johnson, viz: The act reorganizing the Judicial system; act for reducing the Navy and Marine corps; act for the further security of equal rights in the District of Columbia; Schenck's bill for strengthening the public credit; the resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to lend four thousand stand of arms and equipments to visiting military organizations that take part in the ceremonies of the inauguration, and the act granting permission to build a bridge over the Willimette.

GEORGE H. STUART.

It is positively asserted here by gentlemen claiming to have the highest authority for so doing, that the precarious health of Geo. H. Stuart alone prevented his nomination to the Senate by President Grant for a place in the Cabinet.

MILITARY CHANGES.

It is believed several important military changes will be ordered during the present week, among others it is stated that Gen. Terry will succeed Gen. Meade in command at Atlanta.

Steamboat Snagged and Sunk.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—The stern wheel steamer Agnes, from New Orleans for White River, struck a sunken obstruction at Warrentown, Miss., Tuesday morning and immediately sunk. The boat and cargo is a total loss. The passengers, crew, books and money were saved.

Rhode Island Republican Nominations.

PROVIDENCE, March 4.—In the Republican convention, to-day, Hon. Seth Paddieford was nominated for Governor by acclamation, in place of Gen. Burnside, who declined a re-election. The other State officers were renominated.

CONGRESS.

Close of the Fortieth and Commencement of the Forty-first Congress — Excitement and Uproar in the House at the Organization—Mr. Brooks, of New York, in a Wrangle with the Clerk—Mr. Blaine, of Maine, Chosen Speaker—His Address—Contested Seats, &c.

SENATE.

The Senate came out of Executive session at three o'clock.

The Committees of Conference on the Legislative Appropriation Bill and the Deficiency Appropriation Bill made reports, which were concurred in.

Mr. WILLIAMS reported, from the Committee on Conference, on the bill to remove political disabilities, that they were unable to agree.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN called up the bill relating to naturalization, upon which he made an argument, but, without acting upon it, the Senate again, at two o'clock, went into Executive session.

At 2:50 ten minutes recess was taken, after which there was an Executive session until 3:15, when the Cuban sympathy resolution was tabled.

At half-past three the Senate took a recess until ten this morning.

Mr. BUCKALEW reported that the Committee could find no ground for the charge of corrupt influence on Senators in connection with the impeachment.

The Conference report on the miscellaneous appropriation bill was agreed to.

Mr. SUMNER failed to get Mrs. Lincoln's pension bill up.

Messrs. SHERMAN and WHYTE were appointed a Committee on the part of the Senate to inform the President that the body was ready to adjourn.

About half-past eleven an unsuccessful attempt to take up the bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act was made. This was followed by a little period of inaction, and as there appeared to be no further business to transact, or at least no disposition to do anything else, apparently by common consent Senators began to chat with each other and change seats.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House took a recess this morning from five till ten o'clock.

The Conference on the Disability bill failed to agree, and a report to allow mileage for last July session was rejected.

The Conference report on the Deficiency bill was agreed to. Also, on the Legislative Appropriation bill.

The Conference appointed on the Spanish and Cuban affairs, reported a resolution of sympathy.

Resolution reported forbidding the delivery to Gen. Lee of the Washington relics.

A bill passed confirming certain purchases of land in the Iowa district, Michigan.

No action was taken on the motion to reconsider the Congressional debate publishing resolution.

Mr. COBURN reported that the Conference on the Currency Bill failed to agree.

The bill to protect fur bearing animals in Alaska was passed.

The Williamette, Oregon, Bridge Bill was passed.

The Conference report on the Miscellaneous Appropriation Bill was agreed to.

The Senate bill was passed to pay the Sergeant-at-Arms for summoning witnesses on the conference on the Corcoran claim.

The Senate joint resolution to extend the time for completing the first twenty miles of the Cairo and Fulton Railroad was passed.

Evidence in the Busteed impeachment case was reported, and ordered printed.

A resolution was adopted thanking Mr. Pomeroy for presiding over the deliberation of the House since Mr. Colfax's resignation.

Mr. POMEROY then resuming the chair, addressed the House, which adjourned without day.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House met at three o'clock, and was called to order by Mr. McPherson, Clerk of the last House. The absentees were Cox, of New York, Kelly, of Pennsylvania, Morgan, of Ohio, and Hamilton, of Florida. The States of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, and the Twenty-first district of Pennsylvania, (Covode's,) and the Third and Fourth districts of South Carolina, were not represented.

Mr. WOODWARD offered a resolution referring the returns from the Twenty-first district of Pennsylvania to the Committee on Elections, with instructions to report as soon as practicable which of the claimants has a prima facie right to the seat.

Mr. SCOFIELD made the point of order that in the organization of the House the Clerk could not entertain a motion of reference to a Committee, which the Clerk sustained.

Mr. WOODWARD submitted a resolution to amend the roll of members by adding to it the name of Henry D. Foster as representative from the Twenty-first District of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, rose to make a motion which, he said, would take precedence of the motion submitted by Mr. Woodward, and that was that the House do now proceed to the election of a Speaker.

The Clerk entertained the motion of Mr. Washburne and it was agreed to—134 to 58.

Mr. BROOKS made the point of order that the recording Clerk had not called the names of the members elect from Georgia and Louisiana.

The Clerk overruled the point of order.

Mr. BROOKS appealed from the ruling of the Clerk.

The Clerk refused to entertain the appeal.

Then commenced a scene of noise, uproar and excitement which for a time threatened to result in a general row.

Mr. BROOKS at the top of his voice asserted his right to appeal from the tyranny of the Clerk.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, de-

PLEASURE.

[FROM MR. JAMES M. MACRUM'S "SOLITARY HOURS."]

'That had—how sad a passage is it.'—Shakspeare.

Is Pleasure 'the mark of the prize' in our race?
Or only a shadow that Hope would embrace?
'T is som times a shadow; but may be the goal
Of our life-course—a substantive 'mark' to the soul.

How well, if our firmness sustain us so far!
If Truth light us on with its hope-beaming star,
When Falsehood approaches in Pleasure's disguise,
With its treacherous shining to dazzle the eyes!

For the Pleasure that Passion pants after is nought
But a shadowy phantom—how can it be caught?
Nay, however pursued—and 't is wildly pursued—
The grasp the most eager it most will elude.

Oh! how has it power, then, to lure us so long,
In the pictures of story, and visions of song?
Or how does it—why does it lure us at a'l,
And the fond heart of youth so entirely enthrall?

We follow the meteor—neglecting the star,
So steadily pointing our course from afar,
And wander in error—while ardent in youth
And hope, we should run for the meta of truth.

HERE is a cat story from Erie: Last evening a commercial gentleman from New York happened to call in an up town store in which was a fine cat. He was a fiddle string manufacturer.

THE Reading Dispatch says the citizens of Mohrsville and vicinity are excited at the appearance of a ghost, in the shape of a woman, which it is said nightly appears at or near the spot where Miss Adelaide Baver was murdered some years ago. It appears the ghost starts from the woods, walks to the road and then disappears. We have been told that men could swear to having seen the ghost, and if that is the case, it is certainly a mysterious affair.

IN the Chester county prison last year about seven thousand yards each of check and carpeting, and a considerable quantity of other articles, were manufactured by the inmates. The goods sold by the prison authorities amounted to $5,261, and the sum drawn from the county treasury was $4,700. The labor of the prisoners thus paid more than half the expenses, and they were protected from the effects of idleness and promiscuous association.

SHOCKING DEATH.—Peter Britcher, Jr., of Blain, was killed on last Saturday at the steam saw mill in Madison township. He, with a double-bitted axe, and another person were chopping down trees. The two trees at which they were chopping fell toward each other. He ran to avoid the tree, throwing his axe, which lodged in the ground, but a limb of the other struck him and threw him on the axe head foremost, splitting his head open, from which he died instantly.—Perry Advocate.

AN EFFORT will be made at the next election for County Superintendent in Chester county, in May next, to have the office filled by a female. The candidate will be Miss Maria L. The State Superintendent of Common Schools has decided that there is nothing in the law to prevent the election of a female for County Superintendent.

A FRENCH DR. BUISSON, in the magazine called La Ferme, says he himself had hydrophobia caught from the bite of a dog, and cured himself with a Russian vapor bath heated to fifty-seven degrees, centigrade. Unless the man is a downright cheat, there is probably something in this vapor-action relieving the circulation through the pores of the skin; and it should be remembered by those who may, at any time, have to deal with a case of hydrophobia. This is not the first time those vapor baths have been spoken of as an effective cure of that terrible malady.

CLIPPINGS.

THE diversion of Jones's Falls from the city of Baltimore cost $5,528,913, inclusive of $395,375 for filling up the present channel and damages for opening the canal and bridges for streets.

THE Legislature of Maine has increased the bounty on bears from two to five dollars. These creatures are increasing their depredations lately, and killed three hundred sheep in Kingfield alone last year.

A MR. ECKERSON died a few days since at Saddle River of hydrophobia, after prolonged and most horrible sufferings. The Philadelphia papers, mistaking the name, have announced the death of Mr. John Ericsson, the inventor, and followed with lengthy obituaries of that gentleman.

THE snow blockade continues on the Union Pacific Railroad; also in Canada. A dispatch from Montreal reports that the Athabaska Railroad is so completely snowed up that it must be abandoned for the season. In some places the snow lies in drifts nharly thirty feet deep.

RECENTLY Henry Carr, of Middlesex, Vt., found a hollow maple while chopping in the woods, and in it found a swarm of bees which had filled a space five feet ten inches long and one foot in diameter with beautiful honey. He cut off the log, and carried bees and honey home, intending to keep the swarm.

INDIA has had a curious railway accident. An elephant, seeing the red light and the smoke, concluded that the noisy locomotive was an enemy to be summarily demolished. He accordingly placed himself on the track, and met the strange creature, head on, with trunk and tusks. The result was a dead elephant and eleven cars capsized.

CLEVELAND has set up a free library under one of the best laws of Ohio, which authorizes a tax of one-tenth of a mill to be levied for free libraries, in every city with a population exceeding 20,000 inhabitants. The young library is under 6,000 volumes, but the achievement is of infinite value in the example thus offered to the people of other States and cities.

THE annual report of the Pennsylvania State Lunatic Hospital conveys some interesting information. The statistics show that of 1,456 insane males, 471 are farmers, 401 laborers, 23 blacksmiths, 35 carpenters, 43 merchants, 16 physicians, and 7 printers. Of women, 535 were housewives, 54 daughters of farmers, 90 domestics and 254 no occupation, the whole number being 1,073.

THE advantage to Cleveland of a free library is already apparent. Since the opening over twelve hundred persons have applied for permission to draw books and in the last ten days nearly 2,500 books have been taken out. On Saturday last about one thousand people visited the library. The rooms are full all of the time, but the librarian and his assistants are able to accommodate every one.

THE sprouts of the potato contain an alkaloid termed by chemists solanine, which is very poisonous if taken into the system. This does not exist in the tubers, unless they are exposed to the light and air, which sometimes occurs from the accidental removal of the earth in cultivation. A potato that shows a blackish-green tint on one side should never be cooked for the table or fed to stock.

OFFICIALS who have conversed with General Grant of late, have been surprised to find how much he knew of what are denominated rings. It seems that he has made them all a study, till he knows their composition, their means of working, their alliance with Congressmen and with officials in the various departments. He knows the jobs and the jobbers, and he does not hesitate to denounce them all as the worst and most dangerous present enemies of the country.

THE population of Boston is estimated at two hundred and forty thousand. Of this number one-third are Catholics, who have ample church accommodations. There are one hundred and twenty places of religious worship for the non-Catholics, who number one hundred and sixty thousand. Of these thirty-two are free churches, scattered throughout the city and divided among the leading denominations. Of the eighty-eight other Boston churches, not more than one in ten is ever crowded at the regular services.

A FEW DAYS since a daughter of a gentleman in Peoria, Ill., swallowed a glass button. It lodged in her throat, and she began to choke and was unable to make known her trouble. Her aunt, who happened to be in the room, saw at once that she was choking and that prompt action was necessary. She seized the little girl by the feet and held her head downwards, directing another child to pound the back of the one she held. The prompt action was successful, the button was removed, and the life of the child saved.

OLEOGRAPHY.—This new art, just announced, consists in a process of accurately representing the figures which certain oils exhibit when a drop is let fall upon water and allowed to remain a certain length of time. The figures thus produced are said to be constant for each kind. By imitating these patterns they serve as standards of comparison, by means of which the relative purity of oils can be determined more readily than in any other way, the evidence being based not only upon the pattern itself, but upon the time required for the substance to assume a particular figure.

HERE is the latest from Paris: At a recent opera ball, a yellow domino was observed bowing to every lady in a black or rose domino, whose hand he kissed respectfully and retired without saying a word, but making a note in his tablet. Yellow domino was one of the most distinguished editors in Paris, who was engaged in a great social problem. How many pairs of new gloves are worn at this opera mask? And he found that of three hundred and fifty-six which he had smelt under pretence of kissing, there were only eighteen which had no aroma of benzine, or which had not been cleaned.

A GREAT many people are about to pack up and go to Florida, so glowing are the accounts of the remarkable productiveness of that State. A writer in Fernandina says, "if a northern man could live in Florida, year in and year out, he could make it pay to go into the sweet potato and early vegetable business; but a congested liver, or chills and fever, or both, will commonly be the penalty of a protracted residence in Florida. The old residents have the sallow, bad look, which the climate in summer and the bad water are so certain to produce. A man who can spend every summer at the north, may get along nicely; but that is not the way to farm it."

A Woman is Divorced, and Her Husband Marries Again before She Knows it.

The Chicago Journal of Saturday contains this story:

Among the strangest of cases revealing the facility with which divorces are obtained in this city, was one called for examination before Justice Summerfield yesterday. Mrs. Mary Ann Reynolds appeared on behalf of the prosecution, charging her husband, one James Reynolds, with living in an open state of adultery with another woman, after having most basely deserted her. She had also procured a warrant for his arrest upon the charge of bastardy, the couple charged with adultery having had issue. Reynolds and the complainant, his wife, formerly resided in Morris, Illinois. Some years ago Reynolds deserted her, so asserts the woman, and came to this city. She has at various times visited the city in search of him, and says that she has on several occasions seen him on the streets, but that he always avoided her. A few days ago it came to her knowledge that he was cohabiting with another woman and then she made application for a warrant for his arrest. When the case was called before Justice Summerfield yesterday, for examination, she seemed very much surpised when Reynolds produced a decree of divorce, which he had obtained some five months ago in the Recorder's Court, and a certificate of marriage to the woman with whom he stood charged with unlawfully cohabiting, the certificate bearing date of some four months ago. She asserted that she had never had any knowledge of any suit for divorce, and that the decree must have been falsely and fraudulently obtained. Of course the man was discharged. But the unwillingly divorced wife asserted that she would use all means to investigate, and all power to upset the decree. She claims to have been deeply wronged, and avowed a determination to bring the whole case to another judicial investigation. If her expressed determination is executed it is probable that some light will be thrown upon the practice of professional divorce attorneys, and if her statement be true, it is hoped she will further proceed.

Employments of Women.

In Great Britain there are nearly as many milliners and dressmakers for the women as there are boot and shoe makers for men and women together, and many thousands more than the whole United Kingdom; more stay makers than solicitors and attorneys; more makers of plaited straw goods than there are people in the civil service of the government; more seamstresses and shirtmakers than bricklayers, or butchers, or bakers; more washerwomen than there are men in all the learned professions taken together.

These great interests are not heard of in political or in social life, yet their economical value is not trifling. The making of cotton cloth is one of the chief industries of the kingdom; shirtmaking itself is a trade which employs many tens of thousands of people; yet, as Dr. Lyon Playfair has shown, every dozen of shirts made ultimately brings to the washerwoman, on the average, $44, or more than twice as much as the producer of the cotton, the spinner and weaver, of the cloth and the shirtmaker altogether get to divide among them. The wages earned by washing shirts in the United States alone can hardly be less than forty millions of dollars a year, or about one-third of the interest on the national debt.

AS FOR Egypt, if European civilization can really do anything for the Oriental world, the land of the Nile is having a good time. The Viceroy illuminates his park by thousands of gas lights, and hundreds of ladies, bedecked in the pink of Paris fashions, dance in his palace to the waltzes of Strauss and Gungl—his Highness sitting affable and unmoved amidst a storm of champaign corks. We hear also of a revolution in the harem; of the ladies taking an airing in unclosed carriages, with faces scarcely veiled, and assisting at the performance of "La Belle Helene" in a temporary theatre. This is what comes of a Pacha doing the grand tour! Yet the question is once more pressed back upon us: can the Mahommedan faith be gradually fused with the civilizations of the West? Is Egypt even now governed so much by Egyptians as by European merchants, contractors and engineers? There is not much, we confess, in the displays of the Viceroy to lead us to think that the Mussulmans are about to adopt the secular life of the Giaour.

GEN. GRANT AND HIS CABINET.—A letter from Senator Schurz to his journal in St. Louis, the Westliche Post, contains the following:

"Grant has expressed himself clearly in regard to the general character of his admirers. 'If I were a member of the Senate,' he lately said to one of the newly elected Senators, 'and a Democrat had been elected to the Presidency, I, as a Republican, would not hesitate to confirm the nomination of good Democrats as members of the Cabinet. But if a President elected by the Republican party should undertake to nominate men for his Cabinet who were not completely in sympathy with the principles and the policy of the Republican party, I would deem it my duty to oppose them with the utmost determination.'"

This does not leave any doubt as to the general political character of the Cabinet.

HENRY CLAY DEAN, in a letter to Stilson Hutchins, says: "Democratic societies are organized in several of the Eastern States, and also in the Middle and Western States. I understand that the members of these societies pledge themselves to vote for no man, for any office whatever, who is not in favor of the entire abolition of the present Revenue system, and who is not also in favor of repudiating the entire War Debt of the United States, except the pensions and bounty due the soldiers of the United States and the support of the disabled Confederate soldiers who served in the ranks of that army." There is Democracy for you, pure and simple.

THE SOLAR ENGINE, invented by a Frenchman named Mouchot, it is reported, has proved successful. The apparatus is described as follows: A concave reflector is used to concentrate the sunshine on a boiler blackened with smoke, and it is computed that in the latitude of Paris the heat reflected from a surface of a square metre, or 10.75 square feet, will make a quart of water, taken at the freezing point, boil in ten minutes. By the same calculation, it is asserted, that an area of 100 square metres will furnish as much heat in ten hours as can be got from burning sixty pounds of coal. In tropical regions, it is believed, the amount would be still greater.

RIVER NEWS.

The river is again falling with but four feet nine inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks last evening. The weather has again turned cold the thermometer falling ten degrees during the day.

The Kenton, among other items of freight, brought up sixty-five packages of eggs.

The levee presented a very dismal and and deserted appearance, yesterday business being almost entirely suspended, but little freight offering for any point, and as there was only one arrival, the receipts, too, were insignificant. The inauguration may have had something to do with it, but the main cause is the low water, and it is not likely that any of the boats now in port, excepting the packets, will venture out until there is a rise.

The Kenton arrived from Portsmouth, and will depart again as usual to-day at 4 P. M., Capt. Wash Kerr in command.

The Bayard, Capt. Geo. D. Moore, is the regular packet for Parkersbug today leaving promptly at noon.

The following boats are now engageing freight for the points named: R. C. Gray for Cincinnati and Louisville; Messerger and Sallie for Missouri River; Maggie Hays for St. Louis; Camelia for Nashville; and Savanna for Upper Mississippi.

—The Glasgow arrived at Louisville on Tuesday.

—The Kate Putnam and New York, were to have left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

—The Lorena, loaded down to the guards, and crowded with passengers, arrived at St. Louis on Tuesday.

—Mr. William Wherry, clerk of the Kate Robinson, has retired from the boat, and goes into business with his brother at St. Louis.

—The Glasgow, which left St. Louis for Omaha several days since with a large number of emigrants, has been obliged to lie up at Herman in consequence of ice.

—The Underwriter's diver is working at the wreck of the Empire, sunk in the Mississippi. At last accounts he had recovered twelve barrels of molasses and six tons of iron.

—The Memphis Avalanche of Sunday says: The Great Republic, on her way down, encountered a severe snow-storm at Point Pleasant, Friday night, causing her to take the bank, losing several hours on account of the storm.

—The Rubicon of the Vicksburg line last year, brought orders to St. Louis from parties living between Memphis and Vicksburg, amounting to $226,000. This was the business of one boat, and shows the extent and importance of the trade.

—Captain Ford, of the tug Nettie Jones, who was arrested a few days since at Duvall's Bluff, was released, on Monday, at Little Rock, on a writ of habeas corpus, and gave bail in $20,000 to appear at the May term of the Circuit Court of Phillips county to answer the charge of robbery.

—William G. Battelle, Esq., died at his home in Wheeling, on Tuesday, aged about thirty-two years. He was well known among steamboatmen as a member of the firm of Booth, Battelle & Co., and was a promising young man. During the war he was connected with Captain F. W. Hurtt, in the Quartermaster's Department in Cincinnati.

THE ADDRESS OF VICE PRESIDENT COLFAX, on being inducted into office, was curt, but in excellent taste.

MR. GEORGE W. WOODWARD performed a graceful act in moving a resolution of thanks to the outgoing Speaker of the House of Representatives.

OF THE 62,974 registered voters of Arkansas, 44,832 are white and only 19,142 colored. Of these white citizens 13,365, or thirty per cent., cannot read or write. Four counties are named in which one half of the white voters are thus entirely uneducated. Decidedly, Arkansas would oppose an educational qualification.

A DECREASE of nearly eleven millions last month, in the net public debt, brings the total down nearly to that reported at the opening of the year. The country looks now to see the bulk of its obligations steadily and regularly dwindling, with the return of honesty and capacity to the administration of affairs—and the country will not look in vain.

THE AMENDED CHARTER of Washington and Jefferson College consolidates all its departments in one location, within the State, as soon as the needful buildings shall have been provided. That location, if not made by the Trustees by the 27th of April, will be entrusted to a Commission. Now let us hear from Washington, Canonsburg, Uniontown and other boroughs, which yearn for collegiate distinction.

THE OFFICE TENURE ACT never excited our admiration. When it was first proposed it struck us as a lame excuse for not doing something else, of which there was urgent need. But we fail to see how its retention can hamper the new President in initiating such changes in the employes of the different departments as he may judge best. The Senate is in session, and until it shall adjourn he can make changes as freely as though the Act did not exist.

IT WAS WELL for President JOHNSON to illuminate his last days of power by granting pardons to all persons under sentence for participation in the Rebellion. It would have been equally well for any other person, who might have been retiring from the Presidential office, to have exercised the same clemency. But for the outgoing President to pardon men convicted of assassination, and other crimes not warranted by the Articles of War, was an abuse of authority which revealed how far he had become estranged from the party by which he was elevated to the highest position in the nation, and to what extent his sympathies had become enlisted on the rebel side.

WE ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY that six States—Kansas, Nevada, Louisiana, Missouri, West Virginia and Wisconsin—had ratified the Fifteenth Amendment to the federal Constitution. It is reasonable to expect that within a week Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas will also ratify it. This will leave ten more States to concur, if all the States are counted, whether restored or not. The Legislatures of Ohio, New Hampshire, Vermont and Nebraska do not meet this year; but no doubt exists as to their consent. South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Virginia, Mississippi and Texas will ratify in due season. This will make the required number, without Ohio, which may be right a year hence.

PRESIDENT GRANT'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS, given elsewhere in these columns, will prove satisfactory to the Republican masses in all parts of the country. His positions on the finances, on economy and retrenchment, on intercourse with foreign nations, on internal improvements through governmental aid, convey assurances of such an administration as the nation has pressing need for. Nor less significant are his declarations as to what his course will be in regard to Congress and its rights as the law-making department. Restricting his action within the limits clearly assigned to him by the Constitution, which is the embodied judgment of the nation, no conflict can arise between the President and the representative bodies; but the two powers will cooperate in all measures calculated to promote the dignity of the Republic and the welfare of the people.

BEHOLD! HOW BRIGHTLY BREAKS THE DAWN!

A new administration entered yesterday upon its four years' career. And yesterday's sun went down upon a Republic in which a million of intelligent men were, each for himself, casting its political horoscope, with feelings mingled of curiosity and pride. When, before, in the National history has the rapidly revolving cycle of the Constitution dawned upon the nation's eyes with such auspicious omens of coming prosperity and glory? Were ever our political soothsayers so entirely in accord, as to the future of the Republic, as when they and we—the people of a great State so lately rent by bloody strife which menaced the overthrow of all established institutions—beheld the emblems of our authority, loftier and prouder than despots ever wielded, transferred, with an orderly and peaceful quiet and after the simplest of ceremonials, from a ruler found unworthy, to other hands appointed by the people's choice as fitter for the trust? But once, in the history of our Government, has this movement of transition been marked by any shock to the public peace. Once only—the last, let us hope, as it was the first time!—misguided faction appealed from the nation's will to the arbitrament of battle—and the result has received the approving judgment of a Christian world. In all the coming time, while God rules this land and its people's hearts, granting to us the grace to remember and the wisdom to understand the teachings of an experience which His Providence has ordered, the lesson shall be for the highest National good.

The simple but imposing formalities of yesterday marked a change of dynasty under our Republican Constitution. No hostile drum-beat, not one musket-shot, not even one seditious cry, mingled with the acclamations of forty millions of people who beheld the inauguration of their new Chief Magistrate. It may not have been because he was unanimously their choice; indeed, another would have been selected by millions of his countrymen. But all, of whatever party, in politics or creed, whatever their personal or political preferences had been, welcomed their new President yesterday as the expression of a wise and salutary constitutional order of things, in which the peace and glory of the Republic are enshrined. An intelligent patriotism, whatever its individual preferences, must ever regard each peaceful Presidential change as the noblest proof, because it is at the same time the most critical experiment and the most successful vindication, of the statesmanship of the fathers of the Constitution.

The new President enters upon vast responsibilities. He is sustained by the respect of all, and by the especial confidence of most of his countrymen. He finds nothing anomalous in the situation, no antagonisms on the threshold. Surrounded by a harmony, in each of the other great departments of the Government, which consistently reflects from each a faithful and hearty recognition of a common source of power and a common direction of the National will, President GRANT needs only to be true to the voices which have honored him with the Republican crown, true to the teachings of the National experience, true to himself, to the character which has been developed and ripened in the last eight historic years, and true, in fine, to that trust in the unerring wisdom of a Heavenly guidance which the last words of his Inaugural invoke, to achieve for himself a civic crown brighter with perennial glory than any martial laurels, and to win for a long-suffering land, the repose which it needs, and the prosperity at home with the honor among the nations of the earth, which should attend its not far-distant future.

IMMIGRATION TO THE SOUTH.

Misled by President JOHNSON and the body of Northern men who acted in concert with him, a large portion of the inhabitants of the Southern States, for two or three years, cherished vague hopes that it was possible for them to obtain inside the Union many of the objects for which they went into the Rebellion. The Presidential election, held in November last, effectually disenchanted them, and to their own advantage. Since then, the orderly and intelligent members of the Southern communities have been allowed larger degrees of influence, and have received considerable and encouraging accessions to their numbers.

Under the new impulse outrages upon Unionists, and particularly upon Northern men, are of less frequent occurrence, and are perpetrated without the connivance or consent of the leaders of society. This is a promising symptom in itself; but there are others of still greater significance. The system of Slavery having disappeared, the thoughts of many individuals, and of some representative bodies, are turned to discover how best Southern society may be adapted to the new institutions, and so as soonest to repair the wastes caused by the war. Nor are they who are thus engaged left to grope their way without pertinent hints and suggestions derived from experience during the last four years. Much has been done to show that Slavery was not essential to the successful prosecution of the industries peculiar to the Southern section of the Republic, and to demonstrate that with free labor a higher and nobler career is open before it.

In consequence, a strong desire is growing up for the immigration into that section of Northern men and Europeans, possessing money capital, and having all the other prerequisites for the development of latent resources in nature. Louisiana has gone so far as to organize a Bureau of Immigration, one duty of which is to invite settlers by the dissemination of information. Many of the Railway Companies, whose lines extend through six or more of the Southern States have agreed upon a plan for excursion tickets, at low rates, to be sold to all persons who desire to make explorations, and proffers are further made of aid from the employes of these corporations in acquiring information relative to all matters of interest.

These are but the beginnings of this movement, which must assume larger proportions in a few months, when the new administration at Washington shall make its power felt in repressing lingering disorders and giving assurances of future repose. Then the South will take a fresh start, and such a transfusion of population will be the result as shall assimulate the prosperity of the two geographical divisions of the country, and bind them in harmonious relations evermore.

THE INTEREST QUESTION.

The measures presented in a number of our State Legislatures, for the establishment of a higher or a lower rate of legal interest, as the particular case may be, gives this question of interest an unusual degree of importance, and there is, perhaps, no better time to examine into the principles involved in the right to establish a standard of interest, and the expediency of applying this standard to any but a very limited number of cases.

Money is the measure of capital. The paper or coin which a man receives on effecting a loan, is in reality not the subject of the loan, but the means of transfer, entitling him to a certain amount of the aggregate capital of the community—so many barrels of flour, or pork, or so much real estate, or a certain measure of whatever he desires to use it in, and he would be as well satisfied to, at once, receive from the bank or the lender, the flour, or pork, or real estate, without the intervention of money.

Capital is a positive value vested in a material object, whether it be real estate, merchandize, apparel or furniture. When capital is loaned for a limited time the owner of the capital is entitled to an equitable compensation or rent for the same, and where the capital is a specifi cobject, the rent is made a spcific one by means of a contract. If we rent a house, or a piece of machinery, or a horse, or furniture, we pay a sum previously agreed upon that has been adjusted on the scale of mutual convenience. Now, when the capital transferred is a portion of the aggregate capital of the community, that is, the loan of so many barrels of flour or pork, given in the form of money, which is but the key to a store containing the desired quantity of goods, why should not this rent be also adjusted by the mutual convenience of the borrower and lender? It is not argued that it would be reasonable to fix by law the rent of merchandize, of furniture, or of a house, but these are equally capital, or vested values parted with for a limited time. But as money is merely the measure of these values, we can no more reasonably have an interest of money than we may have an interest of a yard stick. Money is not value itself—it measures value just as the yard stick measures quantity.

Interest is simply the rent of capital and the price of insurance against the hazard of losing it. And as the rent of capital fluctuates constantly in conformity with the supply and demand of its material objects, and the price of insurance varies according to the personal character of the borrower or the use to be made of the capital, is it possible to fix by law an equitable standard of interest? Would it not be as reasonable to have a Legislature fix the rent of your house and furniture, the premium of insurance, or the wages of labor, as it now is to have it fix the rent of floating capital or the premium of insurance against a bad debt or a doubtful loan?

The great error which our law makers and many of the people fall into, in viewing this question of interest, is in considering money as capital, instead of regarding it in its true light as only the measure of capital. The loan of money and the use of merchandise rest on the same principle and should be subject to the same rules.

WHY HE WAS SULKY.

In forbearing to attend the ceremony of the inauguration of his successor, Ex-President JOHNSON exhibited a remarkable appreciation of the real proprieties of the situation. It is but a little more than a year ago that ANDREW JOHNSON, President, made statements grossly impeaching the personal veracity of U. S. GRANT, General of the Armies. Investigation speedily established the falsity of the charge. But, to this hour, Mr. JOHNSON has neglected, indeed has persistently refused, to withdraw his unfounded accusation. In the meantime, the public judgment has pronounced upon it, acquitting the accused and transferring the brand of shame to the accuser. The lie which he gave came home—and sticks to him. Hence, yesterday's seclusion of a man, not even whose official station could make a liar fit company for General GRANT. It was, some days since, made known to him that his successor would not ride with his own personal defamer—and he knew, too, that a separate place in the procession, the reason for which would be patent to all observers, would be simply an humiliating acknowledgment of a historic falsehood. Therefore, he was the first of Ex-Presidents to absent himself on such an occasion—and simply because he was the first American President to go out of office self-branded with falsehood upon his record. He sinks into obscurity, realizing that not even a great office can save a slanderer and falsifier from his own personal responsibility to the man whom he would have wronged. That is all of it.

AMERICAN ORDNANCE.

The Congressional investigation into the merits of our ordnance system closes with a detailed report, establishing the facts that all our heavy guns are unreliable for service, and that the adoption of two essentially different patterns has introduced confusion and the risk of serious mischief in both the military and naval arms of the national defense. We have not space for the full text of the report, but the extracts below embody the most important conclusions of the Committee. They say:

The Committee are of the opinion that, for the reasons shown, tho interests of the public service demand a change in the system of procuring ordnance and ordance stores, and the manner of conducting experiments with a view to determining the value of the same. The present system has failed to answer the purpose for which it was designed, and the United States is in the position to-day of a nation having a vast coastline to defend, and a large navy, without a single rifled gun of large caliber, and a corps of ordnance officers who have thus far failed to discover a remedy for the failure of the guns, or to master the rudiments of the science in which they have been trained at the public expense. The importance of an immediate change is shown by the fact that the Chief of Ordnance of the army asks for appropriations to purchase over 1,900 guns to arm the forts, not of a new and better system, to be decided upon after more thorough and careful experiment, but of a kind that experience has shown to be inferior in range and penetration to the guns of foreign powers, and unreliable as to endurance.

The investigations of the Committee lead them to the following conclusions:

1. That no more heavy guns should be purchased for mounting in the fortifications or use on shipboard until such improvements are made in the methods of fabrications as will insure more reliable endurance than has heretofore been exhibited.

2. That the Rodman system of gun-making, while partially successful in smooth-bores and small callibers, has so far failed in rifles of large caliber as to show it to be unworthy of further confidence. Recent imgrovements in defensive works and armor-plating render heavy rifled guns the most efficient means of attack, and no system of fabrication which does not furnish such guns should be adopted or continued. The principle of initial tension, which is the basis of the Rodman system, appears to be of doubtful utility, as applied by Gen. Rodman, especially for rifled guns. This tension, it is admitted, gradually disappears from the gun with age, and in time is entirely lost.

3. That guns cast solid, in the manner practiced in the navy under the direction of Rear-Admiral Dahlgren, while exhibiting satisfactory endurance as smooth-bores with small charges and hollow projectiles, have not the requisite strength for rifles of large caliber. This mode of casting seems to be defective in principle, as the tensions inaugurated in cooling have a tendency to aid the powder to rupture the gun.

Washington Items.

The President elect says he will not continue in office after he gets into the Executive chair, any officer nominated by Johnson and confirmed by the Senate within the past five or six weeks.

A broom was received at army headquarters this morning by express, which the donor said was presented to the President elect to cleanse the Augean stable.

It has been the custom with the Presidents elect to send the names of the gentlemen to compose their Cabinets to the Department of State, to be sent from there to the Senate, but Gen. Grant has decided not to follow these precedents. He will transmit the nominations for his Cabinet to the Senate direct by one of his staff officers.

The mystery of the Cabinet was regarded on all hands as the best kept State secret in the country's history.

The last vote in the Senate on the Tenure-of Office bill showed that the feeling in favor of the total repeal has gained strength within the last few days, so that it will, in all probability, be swept from the statute book during the early days of next Congress.

The bill of the Senate repealing the sixth section of the Army Appropriation act puts the militia in the lately rebellious States on the same footing as in all other States. Mr. Johnson signed it, without doubt, because he must do so to be consistent, but he will deplore the result it produces.

THE French chemist Tardieu has made some interesting experiments with red stockings imported from England. After extracting the coloring matter, he introduced a certaln quantity of it beneath the skin of a dog, which died in twelve hours. A rabbit similarly treated expired in eight hours, and a frog in four. Opening the animals, M. Tardieu re-extracted the red coloring matter from their bodies, and with it dyed a skein of silk. In his report, communicated to the Academie des Sciences, M. Tardieu condemns the use of "coraline" (the mineral poison to which the fatal stockings owe their hue) as an article of general commerce; and recommends that the importation of red stockings from England be absolutely prohibited.

—At the meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, a special committee reported adversely to the government giving any subsidies to steamships or railroads, or for improving the Mississippi river, or reclamation of lands adjacent thereto, until the country is in better condition to liquidate its indebtedness in coin. The portion in relation to the Mississippi river was struck out, and the report adopted.

Assassination by Air-Guns.

The numerous instances of finding men prone upon the most public streets of the Eastern cities, injured as by a bullet, although neither the victim nor any other person had heard the discharge of any firearm, so far as could be ascertained, has caused the suggestion to be made that air-guns have been brought into requisition. According to the authorities, this is a weapon "resembling a musket, for the purpose of discharging missiles by means of compressed air. It consists of lock, stock, barrel ond ramrod. The stock is made hollow, and provided with proper cocks for filling it with compressed air by means of a force pump. Each lock is nothing but a valve which lets in the barrel a portion of the air compressed in the stock, when the trigger is pulled. The gun is loaded with wadding and ball, in the ordinary way, and the air suddenly introduced from the stock propels it with a velocity proportional to the square root of the degree of the compression of the air."

By this weapon a person may be killed at a distance of sixty or eighty yards. Later improvements give it a propelling force almost equal to the old-fashioned musket. Its chief advantage to criminals is its noiseless discharge. The victim may be singled out in a crowd by a person standing concealed in an upper window, and if the aim is accurate, perforated by a bullet, without any chances of detection, excepting those indicated by angles and direction. Indeed, the body might fall in such a manner as to indicate conditions entirely different from those which are real. Whether or not this theory is correct, it is evident that the ingenuity of crime keeps pace with the most approved detective methods.

The Sun's Atmosphere.

The Academy of Sciences, of Paris, has lately received additional details from Mr. Janssen regarding his discovery, nearly simultaneously with Mr. Lockyer, of an incandescent atmosphere—consisting principally, if not entirely, of hydrogen—surrounding the luminous portion of the sun. This astronomer was sent, as may be remembered by our readers, to Simla, in the Himmalaya mountains, to observe the total eclipse of the sun, in August last; and, while there, made the discovery referred to. He states, in his last communication, that this atmosphere is low down, and with a very irregular level, sometimes not passing beyond the projections of the luminous atmosphere, and forming a kind of vault or canopy, continuous with the protuberances, the general composition of which appears to be the same as that of the atmosphere, and to be simply raised and sometimes detached or isolated portions of it. The presence of the atmosphere is said by Mr. Janssen to explain the phenomenon of refraction of the solar surface, revealed by the study of the spots, and to play an important part in all the luminous phenomena of the visible envelope of the sun, and particularly of the feculæ or bright streaks. It is said to be certain that it is to this atmosphere that is principally due that diminution of luminous, heating and photographing intensity presented in so remarkable a manner along the border of the solar disk.

A Sad Calamity.

A few days ago Mrs. Herman Gentch, of Jamestown, Indiana, after lifting a kettle of hot water from the stove, had her attention called to an infant in another part of the room, and, going to it, she took it in her arms to soothe and quiet. She had scarcely held the babe a moment when she heard a scream, and, turning, saw that another of her children, about four years old, had fallen into the kettle of hot water.

The agonized and shocked mother, quickly putting her babe in the cradle, rushed to the poor little one that had fallen in the kettle. She was too late; it had almost instantly ceased to breathe, having been burned severely inwardly.

Now comes the strange part; who will account for it? Turning to her babe again, she found it dead also. Was it the electrical sympathy of the little one's heart, along whose delicate nerves passed the subtle thrill that rent the mother's bosom the cause that produced its death? We know not; but this seems to open a nice question to those fond of metaphysical speculations.

ARCHBISHOP WHATELY says: "He that assails error because it is error, without respect of persons, must be prepared for a storm from the party who were fanning him with the gentle breath of applause, so long as he had been dealing with the errors of the party who opposed them."

A RICHMOND paper has discovered that it is only an unfortunate affair when a white man stabs a negro in the heart, but a diabolical murder when the position of the parties is reversed.

THE Registrar General of London has adopted a new American word. In his weekly returns he says "two persons have died from alcoholism."

The Insurrection in Cuba.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The Mail has information from Cubans lately arrived here that the stories of atrocities charged against the insurgents are fabrications; that they have sixty thousand men in the field, of whom twenty thousand are armed, while others fight with such weapons as they can obtain; that they hold two-thirds of the island; that its entire center is impassable to the Spanish soldiery; that the Government has had no communication with Nuevitas or Puerto Principe for four months, and that Valmesada lost eight hundred men out of five thousand in his march from Nuevitas to Bayamo, picked off by insurgent sharpshooters. All we want, say the Cubans, to finish our work, are arms and munitions—arms for forty thousand men, who fight with boughs of trees with forked ends, and with wooden cannon, which are good for only three rounds, the fourth as a rule bursting them. They say they are ready to pay cash for them; that there is no blockade, and once procured the Spanish Government will be driven from the island in a month. There are reports that privateers have left our ports for Cuba, but the Mail is unable to vouch for the truth of them.

—A serious accident occurred on the Housatonic Railroad, near Lenox, Mass., yesterday morning. The passenger train going South was thrown from the track by a broken rail, precipitating a passenger car down an embankment and seriously injuring twelve persons and more or less injuring all on board. Five of the most seriously injured persons belong in Pittsfield and three in Sheffield.

A MALARIOUS MONTH.

March, that gives us a new President, is also the inaugural month of many harrassing disorders. Entangled in its fogs are the seeds of coughs, colds and of that alteration of frigidity and fire, more widely known than admired, called fever and ague. The only way to avoid these "little unpleasantaesses," is to render the system strong enough to fight off the atmospheric poison that produces them, and the best way to endow it with this repellant power is to tone it with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

If a wayfarer were credibly informed that a ruffian was waiting at the next corner, he would doubtless turn in his tracks, and take a safer route to his destination. With just about the same amount of trouble, the attacks of diseases prevalent at this season may be evaded. Nay, the trouble will be less, for drug stores lie in every one's route, and every respectable druggist in the Union keeps on hand HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. The article is a staple of trade, and it would be as easy to find a grocery without sugar, as the store of an apothecary without this popular tonic remedy.

In view of the experience of the nation, with regard to the article, during the space of twenty years, it seems almost unnecessary to recapitulate its merits to Americans. But as our population is increasing at the rate of a couple of millions in a year, in the natural way and by immigration, it may be as well to hint to the rising generation and new arrivals (the old settlers know all about it,) that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is the most wholesome and potent vegetable tonic ever manufactured, that it is a specific for debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, and miasmatic fevers, that it prevents, as well as cures, those complaints and their complications: that it is not "bad to take," and is absolutely harmless.

THE SOUND OF THE LUNGS.

One of the most accurate ways of determining whether the lungs are in a healthy or diseased condition, is by means of listening to the respiration. To those experienced in this practice it becomes as plain an index to the state of the lungs, and is as well known to the operator as are the voices of his most intimate acquaintances. The belief that long standing coughs, and diseases of the lungs upon which they are dependent, are incurable, are fast becoming obsolete. One great advantage to be gained from this advance in medical knowledge is the earlier application of those who become afflicted with those diseases to some one competent to afford relief. The error which had taken hold of the public mind in regard to the curability of consumption, or rather non-curability, is fast becoming obliterated, and it is well that it should be so, not that persons should lose that salutary fear which would make them apply for a timely remedy, but that all might be induced to use remedies while there is any hope. It is the delay in these cases that fills us with apprehension and alarm, for if every one would make timely application of DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE in the beginning of a cold or cough, few cases would go so far as to become irremediable.

Sold at the Doctor's great Medicine Store, No. 140 Wood street. WILL SHORTLY REMOVE TO HIS NEW STORE, NO. 16 LIBERTY STREET, SECOND DOOR FROM ST CLAIR.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, March 4, 1869.

There was but comparatively little interest taken in business matters to-day, the time and attention of business men generally being absorbed in the inauguration, and business, for the time being, was looked upon as a secondary matter. The demand for almost everything is confined mainly to supplying immediate wants, and this being the case the volume of course is light, while so far as values are concerned there are no important changes. Grain and Flour continues dull and neglected, and there is no margin for shipment; Provisions steady with a fair jobbing demand—though the Western markets yesterday were a little offish.

APPLES—Are coming in more freely, and the market easier, though unchanged, $4@$6 per bbls, for common to choice.

APPLE BUTTER—85@90c.

BUTTER—Is arriving more freely, and the market is easier, though prices are maintained, 40@43, for prime to choice Roll.

BEANS—In better supply—may be quoted at $3,50@$5,75.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Dull at 3½.

CRANBERRIES—Sales at $18 to $22.

CORNMEAL—$1 to $1,10 per bushel.

CHEESE—Sales of Western at 22c, and New York Goshen, at 23½@24c.

CARBON OIL—Is a shade easier but unchanged at 33@33½, in a jobbing way.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches steady at 14@15 for quarters; 16@17 for mixed, and 18@20 for halves, as to quality. Apples 11@12 cts.

EGGS—Continue in good supply but prices are unchanged at 22@23.

HAY—There is a slightly improved demand for baled which is owing to bad roads preventing arrivals of wagon hay from the country, but prices are no higher, $23@$25 for good to prime, on wharf.

HOMINY—$6.00@$6.25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—A shade easier but not quotably lower. Shoulders 14¾@15. Ribbed Sides 17@17¼; Clear Sides 18@18½, and Hams 19½@20. Lard, 20¼ in tierces, and 21@21½ in kegs. Mess Pork $33.00@$33.50.

POTATOES—Very dull and we can report sales in store at 75@80 per bushel.

PEANUTS—10 cts per lb.

GRAIN—There appears to be no demand for Wheat, and the market is dull and prices nominal at $1,48@$1,50 for No. 1 Spring, and $1,60 for No. 1 Winter. Oats firm though the demand continues light: 65@66 on wharf and track, and 67@68 in store. Rye is in limited supply but the demand seems to be light; buyers generally quote at $1,45, though it is said that it cannot be delivered here from Chicago at that figure. Corn is in light supply but dull, at 75@80. Barley is quoted at $2@2,10 for common to good Spring, and $2,15@$2,20 for prime to choice do.

SEEDS—Small sales of Clover Seed at $10@10,50, as to quality, and Timothy at $3,50; Flax Seed is firmer and we now quote at $2,45@$2,50.

SORGHUM—60@70 cts.

SALT—Is quiet but steady, and is still quoted at $2 by the car load.

FEATHERS—Live Geese Feathers quoted at 75@ 80cts, to the trade, and the usual advance in a retail way.

FLOUR—Is quiet and unchanged. Spring Wheat $7,00@$7,50, and Winter Wheat at $8,00@8,50. Rye Flour $7,50. The Pearl Mill quote their best brands made of the best Wheat, as follows: Extra Family Flour, in barrels, at $9,30, and, in sacks, $9,00 per barrel; Double Extra Family, in barrels, $10,00, and, in sacks, $9,70 per barrel; Spring Wheat Flour, in barrels, $7,80, and, in sacks, $7,50 per barrel. The City Mills quote prices as follows: Extra Family, (Winter) in barrels, $9,30, and, in sacks, $9,00 per barrel; Double Extra Family, in barrels, $9,80, and, in sacks, $9,50 per barrel, and Spring, $8,00, in barrels, and $7,70, in sacks, per barrel.

WHISKEY—High wines dull and are a shade easier, and may now be quoted, in a jobbing way, at 94@95.

LARD OIL—May be quoted at $1,35@$1,37 for No. 2, and $1,68@$1,70 for No. 1.

TALLOW—Rendered, 12c.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, March 4, 1869.

The market was very dull and weak during the first half of the day, and, for a time, things looked a little squally, but early in the afternoon the advices from the east were of a more re-assuring character, and holders at once stiffened up again, feeling, that for the time being at least, the worst was passed. There was a rumor current that the bull element in New York had run short of funds, and that there contracts were not cohsidered "gilt-edged," and this donbtless had something to do with the breaking of market in the early part of the day; whether there is any truth in the rumor or whether it was gotten up for the occasion, we are not prepared to state.

CRUDE—The Crude market was very weak during the early part of the day, and compared with Wednesday, prices fell off fully half a cent; in the evening, however, the market was firmer, and there were but few, if any, sellers at the decline. The sales were: 2,000 bbls this month, seller, at 16; 2,000 do do same option, at 16¼; 1,000 next twenty days, seller, at 16¼; and a "put" of 1,000 bbls till April 30th. at 16 and $200.

REFINED—The market for Refined, as already noted, was weak and panicky during the early part of the day, but in the afternoon the advices from the east were of a more favorable character, and there was a stronger feeling at the close. We can report two sales of 1,000 each for the last half of March at 35; and 500 each April to July at 36¼. April to December quoted strong at 36½.

NEW YORK, March 4, 1869.

The President's inaugural had no important effect on Wall street. In the Gold room it occasioned no change at all. Government bonds were a trifle firmer. Money was more active but perceptibly easier during the morning at seven per cent; gold was occasionally paid, but in the evening was more freely offered on stocks, and 4@7 per cent. in Governments.

Sterling is lower owing to the pressure of sales of borrowed bills; prime bankers closed at 8¾@8¾ per cent.

Gold opened at 131¾, advanced to 132, fell to 131¼, and afterwards, on the rise in bonds in London, advanced to 131¾, and closed at 131⅝. Loans were made at 4@8 per cent. for carrying. The clearances to-day were $86,000,000.

Governments strong; the market advanced at noon ⅛ to ½ per cent.; there was subsequently a decline of ⅛ to ¾ on the report that the retiring President had not signed the public credit bill, but the advance was recovered when it became known Grant's inaugural favored the gold redemption of bonds. Coupons of 1881, 115⅞@116; do. '62, 118¼; do. '64, 114⅜@114½; do. '65, 115½@115¾; do. new, 112⅝; do. '67, 112¾@112⅞; do. '68, 112¾@112⅞; 10-40's, 105¾@106.

State bonds firm: Missouris, 87¾@88; old Tennessees, 67@67¼; new do., 65½@65¾; North Carolinas, 59⅜@59⅝.

Stock market without special movement and prices were higher during the morning, heavy and lower at the second board, and firmer towards the close with a recovery from the decline.

Miscellaneous shares firm. Express shares higher.

Five-thirty Prices:—Cumberland, 37¼; Wells Express, 31@31½; American, 42¼@43¼; Adams, 61¾@62; Merchants, 16¼@17; United States, 52½@53; Quicksilver, 24@24¼; Canton, 58½@60; Pacific Mail, 99⅞@100⅛; Western Union Telegraph, 36¾@37; Mariposa, 13¾@14¼; do. preferred, 33⅜@33½; New York Central, 158½@159⅛; Erie, 36@36½; Hudson, 135¾@136; Reading, 90⅝@90¾; Harlem, 134@134¼; Terre Haute, 35@38; do. preferred, 64@66; St. Paul, 64¼@66; do. preferred, 76½@76⅞; Ft. Mining shares dull.

THE MARCH MAGAZINES.

Hours at Home, in its light plain drab color, contains a number of papers of a substantial cast, and at the same time quite readable. Of this class we note Prof. Porter's suggestions on "Books and Readings," and "Reminiscences of Schleiermacher." The article of Sherwood, "Lost in the Desert," is a dainty bit. "Emile de Giracin," "Sebastabol in May, 1855," "A Day Among the Vineyards," etc., will repay reading. The installments of "Motherless Girls," and "Christopher Kroy," maintain the high reputation of the popular writers. The closing pages, devoted to "Leisure Moments, Books and Authors Abroad," will be appreciated by many. This magazine happily combines instruction and recreation, and is worthy of generous support for its moral excellencies.

Our Young Folks stands at the head of magazine literature for young people. The rare talent exhibited by the editors and regular contributors, and the elegant illustrations with which it is adorned, entitles it to preeminence among this class of publications. "The story of a Bad Boy" is continued and grows in interest. Papers of instruction and value, "Glass Cutting and Ornamenting," "The World We Live In," and "Who first used the Mariner's Compass," are found in this number. Professedly edited for the youth of both sexes, it is also a medium of instruction for men and women. The departments "Round the Evening Lamp," and "Our Letter Box," are conducted with taste and ability. In the April number the valuable serial entitled "Gardening for Girls," will be continued. The publishers, Fields, Osgood & Co., of Boston, offer to send four numbers of "Our Young Folks," from January to April of this year, as specimens to any person who will send them their address. This liberal offer ought to be the means of introducing this really valuable magazine into all the families where it is unknown.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Stowe.

THURSDAY, March 4.—In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Rudolph Prysi, indicted for assault and battery, the jury found a verdict of not guilty and directed that the costs be divided equally between the two parties.

On motion of W. C. Moreland, Esq., Thomas Holland was duly admitted and sworn to practice in this Court.

Commonwealth vs. Patrick Gallagher, indictment larceny. It was alleged that the accused, on or about the 24th of December, 1868, entered the public school house at Natrona and carried away a number of school books. The defendant plead guilty and was remanded to jail for sentence.

Commonwealth vs. James Dunn, indictment larceny. James Logan prosecutor. The defendant, it was alleged, on the night of the 5th of December, 1868, did steal from the pocket of the prosecutor a silver watch of the value of fifty dollars. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

Commonwealth vs. James Thackeray, indicted for assault and battery, Benj. Trimble prosecutor. The parties are bill posters, and it was alleged that Thackeray was pasting bills over those put up by Trimble, when the latter interfered to save his bills, and Thackeray struck him with a paste brush. Jury out.

The next case taken up was the Commonwealth vs. Alexander Neeley, indicted for assault and battery, Olive Neeley prosecutrix. It appears that the parties had been made man and wife, but for some cause the wife obtained a divorce on the second day of February, 1869. On the evening of the same day, it is alleged, the defendant went to the residence of the prosecutrix and walked into the kitchen where she was at work. On seeing her, he remarked that she was the woman he was after, that she had "done him dirt" and he intended to kill her. He then, according to her testimony, seized her by the hair and throat. She called for assistance, whereupon her father and others came in and ejected him from the room. The jury found a verdict of guilty, and the defendant was remanded for sentence.

Commonwealth vs. Dennis Devine, indicted for larceny, John Ross, prosecutor, was placed on trial. The parties it appears boarded at No. 15, in the Diamond, Allegheny. The prosecutor alleges that he put his pocketbook, containing twenty dollars, two fives and a ten dollar bill, in his trunk and when he went to look for it on Saturday, the 16th of January, it was gone. It appears that when he received the money two of the notes, a five and the ten, were torn, and he left them with the foreman to have him fix them. Some time afterwards, it seemed, during the absence of the defendant from his boarding house, his pocketbook which he had left in the pocket of his coat, hanging in his room, was taken out and a ten dollar note found in it corresponding to the one that had been stolen. On trial.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

—J. Frank Stevens, for many years chief operator of the Cincinnati and Western Union Telegraph Office, at Cincinnati, died Tuesday morning, of consumption.

—Captain H. D. Cutting, of the National Line Steamship Denmark, en route from Liverpool for New York, was washed overboard and lost on the 16th of February.

—Bishop McQuade has closed the church in which riotous proceedings recently occurred, at Auburn, N. Y., until the congregation conform to the rules of the church.

—John C. Braine, the rebel pirate, has been discharged from custody, a nolle prosequi having been entered in the case against him, by direction of Attorney General Evarts.

—C. D. Hess, manager of the Crosby Opera House, Chicago, has leased Col. Wood's Museum, and will put a dramatic company in there on Monday, besides running the Opera House.

—The National Council of the Union League of America, which had been in session in Washington two days, adjourned on Wednesday. John W. Geary, of Penna., was elected President, and Thos. C. Baker, of New York, Secretary. The National Executive Committee Council meets in New York December next.

—A dispatch from Washington City states that the United States Supreme Court has given a decision in the case of the Agawam Woolen Company against Eben D. Jourdon, confirming the validity of the Golding patent. The decision involves several millions of dollars, and affects the wool manufacturing interests of the country.

—The Massachusetts Legislative Committee on the liquor question are expected to present four reports, namely: one favoring the old prohibitory law, the second allowing the sale of cider and ale, the third allowing grocers and apothecaries to sell liquor not to be drunk on the premises, and the fourth not to meddle with the subject at all.

—At Chicago an extensive swindling case has been unearthed. Last June Moses E. Ludington defrauded several New York, Boston and Philadelphia firms out of a total stock of goods worth $127,000 and then failed. His silent partner has been arrested, by whom the whole plan has been revealed. A large amount of the goods will be recovered.

—The claim of Charles Howard far $250,000 against the Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad Company has been decided in favor of defendant in the Circuit Court at Detroit. The case was commenced in 1863 by the plaintiff for work performed in the construction of a portion of the railroad now occupied by the defendants. It will probably be carried to the Supreme Court.

—O. P. Southworth, Supervisor for Internal Revenue for the Eastern District, has suspended Assessor John W. Frazier, of the First District of Pennsylvania for alleged neglect of duty, and directed the Assistant Assessor, H. V. Stafford, to take charge of the office. It is understood Assessor Frazier refuses to recognize the authority of the Supervisor, and intends to continue to perform the duties of his office.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of the Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and without all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy-Holders.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. The latter the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy. The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

Circulars, Pamphlets and full particulars given on application to the Branch Office of the Company in Philadelphia, or its General Agents.

CONGRESS.

manded the Clerk should go on and call the roll.

The Clerk was proceeding, but Mr. BROOKS seemed determined not to be put down in that way, and shouted "I am a member of the House, and I have a right to appeal from the tyranny of the Clerk."

The Clerk mildly directed that the gentleman from New York should take his seat.

Mr. BROOKS defiantly declared the gentleman from New York would not take his seat on the order of the Clerk.

The Clerk reminded Mr. Brooks that the Clerk was acting under the authority of law.

Mr. BROOKS was not to be appeased in that manner, and declared the Clerk was not acting under such authority, but in violation of all law. [Loud cries of order and great confusion.]

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, demanded the Clerk should put the question on nomination for Speaker, and he nominated James G. Blaine, of Maine.

Mr. BROOKS insisted on his right of appeal and tried to make himself heard, but his voice was drowned in shouts of "Call the roll."

The Clerk once more directed Mr. Brooks to take his seat.

Mr. BROOKS refused and asserted he was a member of the House, while the person undertaking to dictate to him was a Clerk of the House.

The Clerk retorted the gentleman was not a member of the House, but only a member elect.

Mr. BROOKS—And the Clerk is not the Clerk of the House, nor even a Clerk elect.

The Clerk replied the gentleman was mistaken. By the law the Clerk of the last House was the Clerk of this body.

Mr. BROOKS—The Clerk is bound by laws and rules, and the rule is that pending the election of a Speaker the Clerk shall preserve order and decorum, and shall decide all questions of order that may arise, subject to appeal of the House.

The Clerk, interrupting Mr. Brooks, said—It is a very unpleasant duty for the Clerk.

Mr. BROOKS, interrupting—I know it is, but the Clerk is bound by the law, and is bound to hear the law.

The Clerk—The Clerk is enforcing the law.

Mr. BROOKS—The Clerk is not enforcing the law, but is violating it. [Great confusion and excitement.]

Mr. WASHBURNE, Ill.—The member from New York should be put under arrest by the Sergeant at-Arms.

At this time almost all the members were on their feet, Republicans calling to order and Democrats sustaining Mr. Brooks, and the excitement was intense on the floor and in the galleries.

Mr. ELDRIDGE inquired, as a question of order, by what rules the Clerk was governed, by the rules of the House or the law of the land?

The Clerk replied—He was governed by the law of the land and the rules of the House.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—Is it the law of the land which the gentleman seeks to have enforced, and the Clerk refuses to entertain an appeal? I do not believe the majority here to-day would deny the right of appeal to a member. [Loud shouts of "Call the roll."]

The Clerk, in the midst of the now increasing confusion, inquired whether there were any other nominations to the office of Speaker?

Mr. ELDRIDGE, however, persisted in keeping the floor and trying to make himself heard. He would not say the Clerk was not right, but he would say the right of appeal was allowed to members of Congress, and he demanded that right now. [Applause and encouragement from Democrats.]

Mr. JONES, of Kentucky, addressed the Clerk, but he was met with vociferous scouts of "call the roll."

Mr. ELDRIDGE put it to the other side, whether when an appeal was taken in respectful language it should be denied?

Mr. BROOKS—It never has been denied.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—It never would be denied, but that we are all slaves to great excitement. I appeal to the sense of justice of the men who hold the power of the majority.

Mr. JONES, of Kentucky—I desire to make a point of order. I desire to have the rule read which secures the right of appeal.

Mr. LOGAN—I appeal to the Clerk to keep order. If the gentlemen are determined to make a display of this kind, I ask that the Clerk shall have them arrested by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

This suggestion was received by clapping of hands on the Republican side and in the galleries.

Mr. BROOKS defied the gentleman from Illinois to make any arrests.

The Clerk again inquired whether there were any other nominations for Speaker?

Mr. ELDRIDGE persisted in appealing to the sense of justice of the majority. [Cries of "call the roll."]

Mr. BROOKS—I insist on my right to appeal.

The Clerk called upon Messrs. Cullom, Kelsey, Woodward and Voorhees to act as tellers in counting the vote for Speaker.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—I ask the gentlemen if they will not let us appeal from the arbitrary action of the Clerk? [Cries of order.]

Mr. LOGAN—I insist that the Sergeant-at-Arms arrest these men. [Applause and great excitement.]

Mr. BROOKS—There is no Sergeant-at-Arms.

Mr. LOGAN—We'll do it ourselves. [Applause and encouragement on the Republican side, and laughter and defiance on the Democratic side.]

Mr. LOGAN, menacingly—If I were Sergeant-at-Arms, I would do it very quick, be assured of that.

Mr. STOKES at the same time was vociferating in an excited manner and threatening some sort of vengeance on the Democrats, but the only words that the reporter distinguished were to the effect that Democratic members were worse than rebels.

To this Mr. ELDRIDGE replied something which seemed to be an invitation to Mr. Stokes to send on his rebel soldiers. [Uproar, confusion and excitement.]

The Clerk called on Messrs. Woodward and Voorhees to take their places as tellers at the dest, where the other tellers were already seated.

Mr. Woodward complied with the summons, but Mr. Voorhees seemed reluctant.

Then Mr. WOODWARD returned to his seat and made some conciliatory remarks as to Mr. Brooks having the right to appeal, and suggesting the appeal be entertained and decided by the House.

The Clerk stated he had no desire to make a decision that would do violence to the feelings of any member, or to do anything that would throw the body into confusion; but he was obliged to administer the law so as to effect the prime duty of the House. He regretted that any decision of his should be regarded by any gentleman as an invasion of his personal rights, for it was not so intended. He appealed to the tellers to take their places.

Mr. BROOKS, satisfied with the remarks of the Clerk, withdrew his appeal, but without acquiescing in the decision.

The tellers took their places, the storm which had looked so portentious passed away, and all was apparently serene again.

Mr. RANDALL nominated Mr. Kerr, of Indiana, for Speaker.

The vote resulted, James G. Blaine 136, Michael C. Kerr 55.

The Clerk thereupon announced Mr. Blaine duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives for the Forty-first Congress, and appointed Messrs. Dawes and Kerr to conduct him to the Speaker's chair.

The ceremony having been performed amid general satisfaction, the Speaker elect delivered his opening speech. He said:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives—I thank you profoundly for the great honor which your votes have just conferred upon me. The gratification which this signal mark of your confidence brings to me finds its only drawback in the diffidence with which I assume the weighty duties devolved upon me. Succeeding to a chair made illustrious by the services of such Parliamentarians as Clay, Stevenson, and Polk, and Winthrop, and Banks, and Grow, and Colfax, I may well distrust my ability to meet the just expectations of those who have shown me such marked partiality. But relying, gentlemen, on my honest purpose to perform all my duties faithfully and fearlessly, and trusting in a large measure to the indulgence which I am sure you will always extend to me, I shall hope to retain, as I have secured, your confidence, your kindly and generous support.

The Forty-first Congress, assembled at an auspicious period in the history of our Government, the splendid and impressive ceremonials which we have just witnessed in another part of the Capitol, appropriately symbolizes the triumphs of the past and hopes of the future. A great chieftain, whose sword at the head of gallant and victorious armies saved the Republic from dismemberment and ruin, has been fitly called to the highest civic honor which a grateful people can bestow. Sustained by a Congress that so ably represents the loyalty, the patriotism and personal worth of the nation, the President this day inaugurated will assure to the country an administration of purity and prosperity, an era of Liberty regulated by Law, and of Law thoroughly inspired with Liberty. Congratulating you, gentlemen, on the happy auguries of the day, and invoking the gracious blessings of Almighty God on the arduous and responsible labors before you, I am ready to take the oath of office, and enter upon the discharge of the duties to which you have called me.

The oath was then solemnly administered by Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, the senior member of the House.

When the ceremony of swearing the members commenced, they were called up in batches of twenty or thirty at a time, arranged themselves in the area in front of the Speaker's chair, and took the oath with uplifted hands.

When the New York members were about to take the oath, Mr. SCHENCK called attention to the case of Mr. Reeves, from the First District, who had been represented to him as having given aid and encouragement to the rebels while editing the Greenport Watchman.

The SPEAKER asked Mr. Schenck whether he submitted any motion on the subject?

Mr. SCHENCK said he did not, and thereupon the New York members, including Mr. Reeves, were sworn.

Objection was made by Mr. BUTLER to Mr. Hamill, of Maryland, by Mr. SCHENCK to Messrs. Winchester and Rice, of Kentucky, and by Mr. BROOKS to Messrs. Van Horn and Dyer, of Missouri, and these gentlemen stepped aside and did not take the oath.

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Ohio, objected to Mr. Rogers, of Arkansas, and offered a resolution on the subject, but the resolution was laid on the table, and Mr. Rogers sworn.

All the members, with these exceptions, and the Delegates, having been thus sworn, the House, at half past five, adjourned.

The announcement of a Republican caucus for to-morrow morning at half-past ten was made by the Clerk.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

The Street Committee of the Allegheny Councils met last evening.

The Allegheny river is frozen over a short distance above the city.

See Advertisement of Cottage House and large lot of ground in East Liberty, for sale.

The Courts, Real Estate Transfers, and Brief Telegrams, will be found on our seventh page.

Fined.—Henry Skiles, a countryman, was fined two dollars by Mayor Drum, yesterday, for driving his wagon, loaded with straw, over the sidewalk in the Diamond.

Firemens' Association.—A meeting of the Firemens' Association will be held in the hall of the Association, City Building, Monday evening, the 8th inst., at 7½ o'clock.

The Inauguration Prayer Meeting held yesterday at noon in the First Presbyterian Church, was very largely attended. The exercises were of an unusually solemn and impressive character.

Miner Killed.—Yesterday afternoon a miner employed at Bell's coal works, Mansfield, was killed by the falling of a mass of slate. We could not ascertain his name. The Coroner will hold an inquest on the body to-day.

Assaulted.—Mrs. Sarah Schwartz made information before Alderman Mitchell, of the Nineteenth ward, (late East Liberty,) against Thomas McAdams for assault and battery. The accused was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance at Court.

Two Charges.—Thos. McAdams made two informations before Alderman Mitchell, yesterday, against Jacob Schwartz, one for selling liquor to minors, and one for keeping a gambling house. The accused gave bail for trial in each case.

Allegheny Sewerage.—Considerable opposition is being manifested in Allegheny against the proposed law regulating the sewerage system in the city. We understand a number of remonstrances against the measure are in circulation, and are receiving numerous signatures.

Another Coal Case.—The war against the coal dealers continues. Yesterday Alderman Humbert issued a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Moore, proprietor of the coal yard at the foot of Ross street, Monongahela wharf, for violation of the city ordinance relative to the weighing of coal.

A Middle Aged lady, yesterday morning, was suddenly seized with an epileptic fit, on Seventh avenue, near Smithfield street. She was taken into a store near by and medical aid summoned. She recovered in a short time sufficiently to walk to her residence in the upper part of the city.

Property Sales.—The following sales were effected this week by Mr. A. Leggate, auctioneer: House and lot, 155 North avenue; price $13,000. House and lot, corner Bidwell street and Ohio avenue; price, $5,400. Two small houses, 38x40 feet, on Sedgewick street; price, $4,500.

Personal.—Rev. E. B. Snyder, at present pastor of the North Avenue M. E. Church, Allegheny, has received and accepted a call to the pasterate of one of the M. E. Churches in Chicago. Rev. Snyder has been with his present charge for the past two years, and is quite popular and very much beloved.

Fight Between Teamsters.—Adam Wess and James Shoenberger quarrelled on Penn street, Ninth ward, yesterday morning, and Adam, apparently getting the worst of the combat, revenged himself by lodging information against his opponent, before Alderman Strain, for assault and battery. A warrant for the arrest of Shoenberger was issued.

New School House.—The erection of a new school house in the First ward, Allegheny, is talked of. The old building is too small to accommodate the number of pupils in attendance. Messrs. Ingham and Borland of the Board of Directors, have been appointed a committee to take the matter into consideration and report a suitable site, &c., &c., at a future meeting.

Assault and Battery.—Alvin Weitzel made information before Justice Ammon, of East Birmingham yesterday, charging his son-in-law, Charles Rosefeldt, with assault and battery. He alleges that the accused struck him with his fist and knocked him down, Rosefeldt was arrested, and after a hearing was held to bail for his appearance at court.

Beat Him.—A warrant was issued by Alderman Strain yesterday for the arrest of Patrick Irish, charged with assault and battery, on oath of Peter Gallus. The parties reside in the Eighth ward. They got into a dispute yesterday morning, which came to blows, and finally led to the result as stated. Patrick managed to keep out of the officers' reach throughout the day.

The Lecture Last Night.—Mrs. Jane G. Swisshelm lectured last night in the Second U. P. Church, Allegheny, before a large and appreciative audience, many of whom were drawn from this side of the river. The lecture was one of the most entertaining we have heard woman deliver, and we trust the lady can be prevailed upon to deliver it before a Pittsburgh audience.

Fatal Result.—Wm. Brown, who was injured about a week since by falling from the top of a board pile at McBrier's lumber yard, Allegheny, died from the injuries received, on Tuesday. His funeral took place yesterday from his late residence on Sedgwick street, Sixth ward. The deceased was about fifty-five years of age and well and favorably known in this community.

Severely Injured.—Dr. J. H. Dickson, of this city, was severely injured by a collision which occurred on the Northern Central Railroad Wednesday morning. He was brought home yesterday, and is being attended by Dr. Hamilton. Two of his ribs are broken, and he sustained bruises and cuts on various parts of his body. His injuries, however, though severe, are not considered dangerous, and, with care, it is quite probable that he will be able to be about again in a short time.

Hit With a Brick.—Mary White made information before Alderman M'Masters, yesterday, against Thomas Corlin, a youth about seventeen years of age, charging him with assault and battery. Mary states she was walking down Virginia alley when Thomas hailed her. She paid no attention to his salute, which, she alleges, caused him to throw a brick which struck her in the back and made her insensible for a time. The accused was arrested and gave bail for a hearing to-day.

Self-Destruction—Another Suicide.

Another shocking case of suicide occurred in Allegheny yesterday. The victim, Mr. Andrew Phy, was a man about forty years of age, and the father of a family of five children. He resided on Chestnut street, Seventh ward, and was by occupation a baker. For several days past, it is said, he had been drinking pretty freely, and upon recovering from his dissipation, became very gloomy and despondent. Yesterday afternoon some of the neighbors in the vicinity of his residence heard children's cries coming from the house, and upon going in they discovered Mrs. Phy endeavoring to stop the flow of blood from a hideous gash in the throat of her husband. It seems the man, during the absence of his wife from the room, had seized upon a pair of scissors and attempted to take his life, but was interrupted in his operations by her return. As quickly as possible, Dr. Hardtmeyer, residing in the neighborhood was summoned, and medical aid rendered the unfortunate man. Notwithstanding every effort, however, the wound proved to be mortal, and about an hour after the committal of the rash act death ensued. The deceased had been predisposed to insanity, and the supposition is that he was laboring under a temporary mental aberation at the time he inflicted the fatal wound. His brother has been confined in the insane asylum at Dixmont for about seven years.

Coroner Clawson was notified of the affair and will hold an inquest on the body this afternoon.

How Do They Live?

This question, under some circumstances, might be considered an impertinent one, and, for aught we know, may be in this instance, nevertheless our "natural curiosity" or desire for information, which ever it may be, prompts us to propound it. Day after day the several County Court rooms are crowded from the opening of the Court until it adjourns with a set of able-bodied, healthy looking men, whose only object there seems to be to hear and see what is going on. The same faces that were seen there yesterday will be seen in the same places to-day and to-morrow. The appearance of most of the persons referred to does not indicate them to be men of leisure, or at least the possessors of sufficient means to live without labor, hence the question "how do they live?" Idleness is one of the first steps to crime, and it should not be countenanced either by individuals or communities, as both suffer to a greater or less extent from its consequences.

A Thief Captured.

Yesterday evening Charles A. Hunter, a young man, and evidently a stranger in the city, was arrested at Smithson & Co.'s auction store on a charge of larceny. He was in the store for some time, and it appears managed to get possession of a pair of shoes, which he secreted under his coat unobserved. He then endeavored to make his way out through the crowd, when his manner attracted the attention of some one who informed one of the employes that he thought Hunter had stolen something. He was stopped and an officer called in, who took charge of him and conducted him to the lock-up. On arriving at the watch-house, Capt. Graham searched him and found in his possession a pair of shoes, which were identified as having come from Smithson & Co.'s by one of the employes. Hunter alleged that he purchased the shoes in the morning, but could not tell where. He will have a hearing this morning.

A Brutal Husband.

Mrs. Mary Hopfield called at the Allegheny Mayor's office yesterday morning and stated that her husband, Henry Hopfield, while in an intoxicated condition, had beat and abused her in a shameful manner. Hopfield has been in the habit of indulging in this manly amusement, and but a few days ago was released from punishment for the offense by promising future good behavior. The woman was so badly abused that she could hardly walk yesterday. The accused was arrested, and, in default of payment of fine, committed to jail for thirty days.

The Rink.

The Keystone Skating Rink will be open to lovers of the skatorial art to-day and this evening. The Rink was flooded last night, and will be found to contain this morning a sheet of ice smooth as a mirror and level as a floor. As this may be the last opportunity for skating during this season it should be improved by those interested. In addition to the other attractions to-night, Prof. Yeager will represent "Mercury" on the velocipede. Don't fail to be present.

Cool Proceeding.—Alfred McWilliams made information before Alderman Mitchell yesterday against William Heshett for larceny as bailee. The parties reside in the Nineteenth Ward (late East Liberty). The prosecutor alleges that the accused and George M'Combs gave him a joint note in settlement of an account, about two months ago. Yesterday, he states, Heshett called upon him and asked to see the note, which he immediately pocketed and carried off with him. Heshett was arrested, and after a hearing gave bail in the sum of five hundred dollars for trial.

Alleged Aggravated Assault—Timothy Kelly, an ex-policeman, made information before Alderman Strain, yesterday, against Wm. McClure and John Paisley for aggravated assault and battery. The prosecutor states that while he was a policeman under Mayor Blackmore, the accused attacked and beat him one night without provocation. Prosecution was entered before the Mayor at the time, but the matter was afterwards dropped. The present information is therefore a revival of the case. A warrant was issued.

Disorderly Boarder.—Thos. Richardson drank too much whisky yesterday morning, which caused him to create a disturbance at his boarding house, in the Sixth ward, Allegheny. He was arrested on an information for disorderly conduct, preferred against him by the landlady. After a hearing, before Mayor Drum, he was fined $20 and costs. This is the second time within the last two days that Thomas has been in the watch house for a similar offense. He paid the fine and departed.

Acknowledgment.—The ladies of the Relief Society, of Allegheny City, have acknowledged the receipt of various donations ranging in sums of from three to one hundred dollars, in response to their appeal, recently made to the public, which sums added to those already acknowledged, $64, make the total of $280.

By order of the managers,

MRS. F. R. BRUNOT,
MRS. DR. TREVOR.

Alderman Peter Bolster, of the Third ward, Allegheny, will open his office, in a few days, on West street, a few doors above Ohio.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The audience at the Opera House last evening was one of the largest and most fashionable that has assembled at that establishment during the present season, and we have never seen Lotta play better. The "Female Detective," a piece admirably adapted to Lotta's peculiar and original style, giving full range to her versatile talent, was presented in a highly acceptable manner. There is none of that affectation or inclination to imitate, so irksome to an audience, about Lotta. Her style is peculiar to herself and entirely original. The bill for to-night comprises "Capt. Charlotta," Brougham's burlesque of "Pocahontas," and "Family Jars." As this is the occasion of Lotta's benefit, we anticipate a crowded house.

SMYTHE'S AMERICAN THEATRE.—The Victorelli Brothers continue to be the attraction at the American Theatre, and they have so far proven a very forcible and profitable one to the Manager. The houses are crowded every night, and doubtless will be so long as these remarkable men form a feature in the entertainment.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The benefit of Harry Williams, at the Pittsburgh Theatre, of which he is the lessee, last night, was a decidedly substantial one. The house was crowded, and the entertainment was of the most satisfactory character to the audience. Dr. Thayer's excellent company of equestrians, gymnasts and acrobats gave an excellent exhibition, which they will also do this evening.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The three nights of the comic English Opera, by the Susan Galton Opera Troupe, commencing Monday night, promises to be the most brilliant of the season. Monday evening Offenbach's comic opera "Litchen and Fritzchen," the "Bonnie Fish Wife," and "La Rose de Saint Fleux," will be presented. The sale of seats will commence at H. Kleber, No. 122 Wood street, this morning. No extra charge for reserved seats.

JANAUSCHEK.—Fanny Janauschek, the great German artist, will give three entertainments next week at the Academy of Music, commencing Thursday evening, when she will appear in Elizabeth, supported by an excellent dramatic company. Sale of seats will commence Monday at Kleber's.

MUSEUM.—Maj. Burnell continues to add new attractions to his interesting Museum.
